FRIDAY, JUNE 10.

Spain's conduct of the present war establishes the fact, that it never overlooks an opportunity to do a foolish thing.

Ex-Senator John Sherman opposes the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands. Uncle John is no longer in touch with the administration.

Ex-Senator Puffer has been nominated by the prohibitionists of Kansas as their candidate for governor. And the wind will blow through his whiskers after election.

Scientific men assert, that the ancient Egyptians had comic newspapers. No wonder some of the jokes in Puck, Judge, Life and the rest of them are decidedly stale.

How times have changed and that for the better. Unconfederates now in the service of Uncle Sam don't mind it a bit to be called "d—Yankees" by the Spanish press and the people.

Good crops are predicted in the state of Kansas this season and that means that the Republicans will carry the state at the fall elections. Providence is on the side of the Republican party this year, it seems.

The Spanish commander at Santiago reported to Madrid that the fortifications there had been "injured to a certain extent." Within a few weeks, Spain will have to evacuate Cuba to a "certain extent" also.

So far this year two states have held elections, Rhode Island and Oregon. Both states were Republican by largely increased majorities over 1896. The free silver papers of the country have very little to say on this fact.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Albuquerque Citizen, joins the New Mexican in calling for activity and work on the part of the Republican leaders in the territory. Time and tide wait for no man, gentlemen, and hence be up and doing.

A United States flag will wave over Morro castle at Santiago de Cuba in a few days. It will be a glorious sight for the American soldiers, but a sad one for Admiral Cervera. But then the admiral cannot expect to have it all his own way.

The Albuquerque Commercial club claims to have secured 10,000 acres of land for the planting of sugar beets in the vicinity of that town. The New Mexican hopes that this report is true. But the land, without the water to irrigate, is of no avail. Water is king in New Mexico.

Major General Shafter's army corps is aloft and en route to Cuba. "Old Bull" Shafter always meant business and the New Mexican is of the opinion he will stand by his old reputation and teach the Spanish troops near Santiago de Cuba what business means.

The latest and best territorial news in condensed and readable form appears daily in this journal. Keep up with what is going on in the territory and read the New Mexican, do not care much which edition you read, but read and you will be happy, virtuous and well informed.

Pious John Wanamaker is still talking through his hat and complaining of his recent defeat in the Pennsylvania state convention that would not nominate him as a candidate for governor, but instead nominated a Quay man. The pious John shows plainly that he is a poor politician. The first requisite of a successful politician is to take his medicine calmly and be ready for the next time.

The revenue laws of the territory are good enough were they properly executed in letter and in spirit. But they are not. Several of the counties are in a hopeless financial muddle and the territory has to borrow right along in one shape or another. As territorial legislation does not seem to better the financial condition of the territory and of the counties, what is the matter with a little federal legislation?

The Western Union Telegraph company is up to the times and is aggressive and progressive. Today it opened an office in the city of Victoria, British Columbia, having just extended its telegraph lines to that point. All rates to British Columbia and the Northwest Territory will be reduced from today. Heretofore the rate to Victoria was $1.35 per 10 words; on and after today it is 75 cents for 10 words, which is, of course, a great reduction.

Is a Great and New Political Party Forming?

One of the direct results of the war with Spain, aside from the acquisition of territory and the driving of the Spanish from the western continent, will be the widening of political views held by the voters. Already the effect can be seen in the commingling of men who fought in opposing ranks in the war of the rebellion, in the ranks of the volunteer forces, and the appointment of ex-confederate officers to official positions in the armies now going to the front. The day of sectional dissensions has passed and a new era has dawned upon the country in more respects than one. Commercially there will be great expansion; politically there will be greater tolerance and more freedom of action.

Looking at the situation from an unprejudiced standpoint, is it not altogether probable that out of the feeling of good will and patriotism that has become so prominent in the past two months a new political party will arise that will take the place of the two dominant parties of the present day? A party which will combine the better elements of the Republican, Democratic and Populist parties, and lead the nation to greater glories and achievements than has ever been dreamed of by the most sanguine American?

As the politics of the nation are now lined up, the NEW MEXICAN believes that the best interests of the people are subserved by the Republican party and its principles; believes that protection and sound money are the only safeguards for National prosperity and integrity, but at the same time it recognizes the fact that parties, like men, serve their day and generation and must give way to the changes which are inevitable. The Populists have dreamed that the mission of that party was to replace one or the other of the old political organizations with something better, but guided, as they have been, by mere dreamers and impractical would-be reformers, they have failed to even commend themselves to the good opinion of the patriots of the country because of inherent weakness. Such has been the history of other parties which have sprung up in the past 30 years. Controlled by visionary errors they have only served to make a thorough exhibition of the foolishness of mankind in general and passed from memory. But at this time conditions are ripe for the organization of a party which shall combine all that is good of the present organizations, discarding that which is corrupt and demagogical, and in the end prove a blessing to the great republic.

To the Republican party the people of this country owe all that has brought greatness and honor for the past 40 years; national cohesion, freedom of press and speech, growth and prosperity. And its day of usefulness is not passed. It is as powerful for good as ever. The Democratic party has lived its day; its achievements have been rather of a negative character, and aside from the ignis fatuus of free trade seems to have nothing to live for. Just on what grounds it can make a contest for the suffrage of the voters in the future is difficult to see at this time. Its rank and file are restless and dissatisfied, its leaders bewildered and discouraged, except in those sections where prejudice is the controlling motive.

No one can foresee the ultimate outcome of the war, but that this nation is on the verge of greater things everyone who has watched the trend of events acknowledges. Can these things only come from the disintegration of present political parties and the construction of new parties and the forming of new political friendships? This is a question which is stirring the whole country and the outcome will be watched with even greater interest than the conduct of the war which promises so much for the future greatness of the greatest country on the face of the globe.

Still Experimenting.
It would seem from the action of congress that the law makers are not weary of dangerous experiments or else the members of the two branches of that body are endeavoring to disarm opposition in the coming election.

The conference committee on the war revenue bill has agreed to the proposition to coin the silver seigniorage in the treasury, although in a modified form from that proposed by the senate. The senate amendment provided for the coinage of $4,000,000 per month; the conference arrangement provides for coining $1,500,000 per month. Treasury experts estimate that it will require five years to coin the silver on hand available for that purpose, which means that it will be five years before there is any market for a single ounce of silver more than the demand requires at this time.

No doubt the free silverites imagine a great victory has been won for their hobby, and perhaps several congressmen will be re-elected because of the arrangement, but it requires a very vivid imagination to see where the victory comes in. It is to be hoped, however, that this action on the part of the United States will force the great monetary powers of the world to restore silver to its former place as a primary money metal. If such should be the result no country would receive greater benefit than the United States, but—

That little word "but" is so full of adverse possibilities that even the staunchest friend of silver will almost hold his breath while the experiment is tried. It may bring financial hardships which will prove a burden on the country; it may result in conditions which will in a large measure destroy the prosperity now in sight for the country. However, it is best to always look upon the bright side of such affairs.

There is one consoling feature about the new coinage act, should it receive the president's signature, if it proves disastrous in its operations, it can be repealed before any vast amount of harm has been done.

Deputy Collector of Customs Richard Hudson, of Deming, has called for the resignation of Mounted Inspector T. R. Houston, and the latter named gentleman refuses to tender it.

Little Helen D. Snyder, the pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl A. Snyder, has gone into the newspaper business in this city, and issues every day the Albuquerque Daily News, which gives the war news taken from the bulletins posted in front of the Citizen office. The type-setting and press work are done on Helen's papa's typewriter.

Elias Garcia, a prominent sheep raiser in the Jemez country, is in the city on business. He reports the peaches in that section in good condition, but unless rain falls within a few days there will be a scarcity of water and grass on the ranges. The preliminary hearing of Joseph Metzinger, the owner of the property on which Mrs. Carabaja was killed by a man trap, last Sunday evening, began before Justice Duran Wednesday morning. The defense set up the claim that Metzinger had a right to protect his premises against thieves in the manner he did; the property was securely fenced, the gates were locked, and that Mr. and Mrs. Carabaja were trespassers. The prosecution maintained that no man had the right to place a deadly trap where it would endanger human life, and particularly in such places where innocent persons might suffer death, as was the result of Metzinger's experiment. Metzinger was bound over to appear before the grand jury without bail.

Recent developments prove that Jose P. Romero, the man confined in the county jail for the murder of O'Bannon's child, is guilty of cattle stealing along with his other offenses. Two ranchmen were in the city Tuesday who informed Sheriff Hubbell of their suspicions that Ruiz was the man who had stolen their cattle a short time before the shooting of the child occurred. The sheriff made an investigation and found several hides and a live cow in the possession of Juan Samora, a butcher in Old Albuquerque, which had been bought from Ruiz and a man by the name of Conrado Gonzales, alias Manuel Garcia y Romero. The two ranchmen identified the cow and hides as their property. Sheriff Hubbell is now looking for Gonzales.

Within the past few days good rains have fallen in the vicinity of Puerto de Luna, Gallinas Springs, Springer and along the Pecos river.

Some cough mixtures smother the cough. But the next breeze fans it into life again.

Better put the cough out. That is, better go deeper and smother the fires of inflammation. Troches cannot do this. Neither can plain cod-liver oil.

But Scott's Emulsion can. The glycerine soothes and makes comfortable; the hypophosphites give power and stability to the nerves; and the oil feeds and strengthens the weakened tissues.

124 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not started until May, and a majority of the acreage was planted between JUNE 1st AND AUGUST 10th.
